A STUDY OF HINDU ART AND ARCHITECTURE

With Special Reference to Terminology

Dr. Lalit Kumar Sukla

Much has been studied and written in both East and West on the monuments of Art and Architecture still existent in India, but very little has been done to study the theoretical principles on which such a great tradition of practical art was based. The present author endeavours here to present a systematic study of such theoretical records, on the basis of his original researches into the most difficult treatises as "Māna Sāra," "Samarāṅgaṇa Sūtradhāra," "Aparājita Pṛcchā," etc. The present work which explains almost every technical term used in those works, can be deemed as an Encyclopaedia of Ancient Indian Art and Architecture. 80-00

ŚRĪ BHAGAVATPĀDA ŚAṄKARĀCĀRYA

By

A. Kuppuswami

Śaṅkarācārya, the great exponent of the Vedantic monism is rightly considered to be one of three great philosophers of the world. His works from the most important part of the philosophical and devotional literature of India. But it was unfortunate that authentic biography of this great ācārya was not so far available. The present work is an attempt to reconstruct much a biography on the basis of all the available materials in print and manuscripts diligently scrutinized with an impartial and unbiased out look. 20-00

CHARAKA SAMHITA

(Text in Sanskrit with A New English Translation)

By

Dr. Ramkaran Sarma

Dr. Bhagavan Das

The Charaka Samhita occupies a very important place in the History of world's medical science. But this work is quite difficult to understand to those who are not well accustomed with the particular style of Sanskrit in which it is written. Hence an authentic translation was a desideratum.

The present Translation is not only the result of painful labour of two renowned scholars, but it comprises valuable extracts from the famous Commentary of Chakrapanidatta, rendered into English. Sutra Sthana In the Press

CHANDRAGUPTA II VIKRAMĀDITYA

By

Dr. Raj Bali Pandey

In the galaxy of the great rulers of ancient India, Candragupta II Vikramāditya occupied a prominent position. His role in the expansion and completion of the Gupta empire, the establishment of an ideal system of administration of the Gupta age—the golden Age of India was of exceptional merits He was, however, unfortunate in one respect, i.e., he had no court poet like Bāṇa to write his personal life. Materials to reconstruct his biography is also very meagre. The present work presents a connected biography of that emperor on the basis of all available materials and it comes from a scholar who needs no fresh introduction. 25-00

A CRITICAL STUDY OF SANSKRIT PHONETICS

By

Dr. Vidhata Mishra

The aim of this work is to present a phonetic experiment of Sanskrit Language. For the convenience of the study the whole work has been split into three parts. The introduction gives a brief history of phonetics in Sanskrit and its contribution to the study of modern phonetics. Later the description and analysis of Sanskrit sounds and the technical terms of Sanskrit Phonology have been dealt with. Other parts of the work presents a systematic study, ever unattempted of the process of speech production and the classification of sounds, the varnas, the feature of Sandhi or euphonic changes, the syllabic structure, duration and accentuation. NEW LIGHT ON THE SUN TEMPLE OF KONĀRAKA

BY

Dr. Alice Boner

The Sun Temple of Koṇāraka is an unique example of the high standard of Indian Architecture and Sculpture. The remains of this temple rouses admiration and wonder in every lover of Art. But, unfortunately the major portion of the temple being mutilated no body could imagine the craftsmanship of the Architects who were the makers of this wonder. Dr. Alice Boner has, fortunately discovered a palmleaf manuscript in Oriya language which presents an illustrated document of the plan of the temple as well as records every minute details of its construction.

The present edition is an English translation of the newly discoverd manuscript thoroughly annotated with the help of allied literature and illustrated by numerous photographs and sketches. In the Press

WESTERN ÆSTHETICS

By

Dr. K. C. Pandey

Second Revised Edition 1972

Demy 8vo. pp. xxxiv+612 Rs. 50-00

There was a time when æsthetics was considered to be a subject exclusively of the West. All earlier histories of æsthetics written by eminent scholars confined themselves to the presentation of æsthetic currents in the west. It is of late that western Indologists became conscious of the existence of oriental, especially Indian æsthetics and made some contribution to this field. But a comparative study of the western and eastern æsthetics was possible only when Dr. K. C. Pandey whose works have already aroused great interest among scholars in the field of Śaiva philosophy and æsthetics, took up the work. It is due to his deep insight and scholarly presentation in the second volume of his Comparative Æsthetics (Western Æsthetics) that the impression was created that the East and the West have thought on problems of the beautiful in ways which have marked similarity.

To prove the correctiness of the thesis, the volume presents the imitative, hedonistic, pedagogic, kathartic, mystic and other allied theories of art in a chronological order. It points out the similarities of Western and Indian thought and gives a summary of comparative approach.

That this pioneer work has been welcome in the scholarly world is very well proved by the fact that a Second edition has long been in demand, which is now published.
